Rajiv Gandhi National Institute of Youth Development

As Youth Development constitutes a core component of national development in the context of building human resources in a vast country like ours, it was felt that there must be a national organisation to identify all the relevant aspects of youth motivation and to develop and design programmes for promoting youth welfare. Therefore, Rajiv Gandhi National Institute of Youth Development (RGNIYD) was set up as an autonomous body by the Department of Youth Affairs and Sports, Ministry of Human Resource Development, Government of India and registered under Societies Registration Act, XXVII of 1975 S.No.67 of 1993.

It has emerged as the professional resource agency, and acts as a think-tank of the Ministry of Youth Affairs and Sports, and assists the Government and Non-government agencies in youth related activities. As the apex Institute at the national level, it works in close cooperation with the NSS, NYK and other youth organisations in the implementation of training programmes. The Institute is a nodal agency for training youth and a facilitator of youth development activities in rural as well as in urban areas.

The Institute is provided with the essential facilities and infrastructure so that it would serve as a Centre of Advanced Study and Applied Research for ensuring availability of professional expertise in youth work and to create a competent cadre of youth workers. As a regular feature of its functional activities, the Institute has launched a number of research projects and extension programmes to unearth the potential in the young people which perhaps remains untapped. It provides a forum for youth to debate and discuss issues that concern them as well as those that impinge on their development.

This Institute has the following five Divisions besides the Administrative Division, each under a Faculty Head.

- Training, Orientation and Extension Division (TOE)
- Research, Evaluation and Documentation/ Dissemination Division (READ)
- Panchayati Raj and Youth Affairs Division (PRIYA)
- International Centre for Excellence in Youth Development Division (ICEYD)

1. Overview

Rajiv Gandhi National Institute of Youth Development has been playing a vital and catalytic role at the national level as the apex Institute for Training, Research, Action Research, Consultancy, Dissemination and Documentation activities in the field of youth development. During the year under report the Institute has recorded a quantum jump not only in the quantity of programmes but also strived to enhance the quality of programmes implemented.

The role of young people is very important in a democracy. Unfortunately, most youth in India are mere spectators in the process of development. There is little youth participation in leadership and their role in civic engagement is not much in evidence. There is a need for increased involvement of youth in decision-making roles. For our grassroots democracy to function effectively, especially, as the voting age has been lowered to 18 years, our youth should become active participants in civic society. They should understand the meaning of citizenship, policies and governance, and acquire the ability to voice their concerns and make the system accountable. The overall objective of the national youth policy is the composite and all-round development of youth in India which it seeks to establish by providing an all India perspective to fulfill their legitimate aspirations so that they are able to successfully participate in the challenging task of national reconstruction. There is a need to develop quality of citizenship and education to community services among all sections of the youth. RGNIYD was identified as the platform for interaction and sharing of experiences by the youth from different states on the implementation of the Panchayati Raj System in the country. The objective is to facilitate replication of the best practices in States where Panchayati Raj System is yet to take off or else weak. The ultimate objective being the strengthening of Panchayati Raj System with the active involvement of the younger generation. During the year, a series of nine Interstate Interactive Experience Sharing Programmes on Youth in Panchayati Raj Campaigns were organised for all the southern states including Puducherry in which 540 young elected representatives participated. These interactions provided scope for discussion, debate, dialogue and group discussions. The interactions were facilitated by eminent people including among others the Honourable Union Minister for Panchayati Raj and Youth Affairs and Sports, Government of India Shri Mani Shankar Aiyar and Shri Veerappa Moily, Chairman, Administrative Reforms Commission with the help of multi-language simultaneous translation system installed for the purpose. These interactions came out with useful recommendations.

Today, the youth of the country need to be oriented about the rich cultural tradition, history and constitution of India to nurture in them the love and affection towards their motherland. The youth should feel proud of our secular and democratic values and the diversity of our culture. The sensitisation of youth is possible only through purposeful interventions with a combination of programmes and methodologies. Since there is no recognised module for training in Social Harmony and National Unity, RGNIYD decided to formulate one to train the youth, to promote national unity, integration and communal harmony, by organising a series of brainstorming sessions, consultations, seminars and workshops. The uniqueness of this manual is its comprehensive approach towards Communalism, Challenges for maintaining Harmony and National Unity, Indian History, Indian Independence, Constitution, Secularisation, Causes for disharmony and its solution, Sadbhavana, Life skills and Conflict resolution. These inputs have been taken across to the master trainers by organising Training of Trainers

Programme on Social Harmony and National Unity using participatory methodologies.

RGNIYD started the North-East Youth Exchange and Home Stay Programme for providing an opportunity to the youth of North-East to visit, interact and communicate with the youth of rest of India. This programme enables the North-Eastern Youth to get more exposure to the main land and they can acquire knowledge on our country's development and participation of youth in the development activities. The objectives are:

- To imbibe in youth the values of integration, especially emotional integration and unity of the country
- To provide opportunities to the young people of both North-Eastern as well as other parts of the country to see different places of cultural interest, language, life style, historical and cultural monuments, and also the leisure-time activities.
- To share and appreciate each other's traditional and cultural heritage as well as development in different spheres of life.
- To encourage them to develop friendship with the people belonging to other parts of the country and to continue the friendship.
- To create active interest about North-East region and its people in the minds of people of the rest of the country and vice-versa.
- To provide an opportunity to the youth of North-East to stay with families in other parts of the country and to understand their family life situation, culture and to observe developments in various sectors like industries, transportation, communication, agriculture etc.

The programme has three components:

- Youth from North-Eastern region visiting other parts of the country.
- Cultural Exchange Programme for promoting peace and harmony.
- Home stay for understanding life style and values.

Adolescents being an integral part of the youth development process, according to the Youth Policy 2003, the needs and concerns of adolescents are addressed by the Institute through a set of well designed programmes and activity under the Adolescent Health and Development Project – a joint collaborative programme of the Ministry of Youth Affairs and Sports and UNFPA. Under this project the District Adolescent Resource Teams (Resource persons were engaged for conducting Training, Advocacy and Field level activities) from 60 selected districts covering 300 members comprising Doctors, Social Workers, Teachers, NGO personnel were trained at RGNIYD by organising the Training in five batches covering all the regions of the country during September and October 2006.

As the 'think tank' of the Ministry, the Institute is mandated to contribute to policy and programme formulation. The Institute felt it essential to hold an Asia Regional Consultation on Youth Policies and Programmes in collaboration with CYP Asia Centre to discuss the action plan for implementation of the existing policies of the Commonwealth countries, examine the youth programmes under implementation and the monitoring and evaluation mechanism available as well as share the experiences of the best practices and document the success stories. This consultation brought together the policy makers and programme implementors from the Commonwealth countries in the Asian Region who discussed at length and came out with recommendations to member countries.

The Institute does not restrict itself to the development of the youth in the country but also focuses on exposing them through interactions and visits with the youth from different parts of the world. This was facilitated through visit of a 103-member Chinese Youth Delegation in November 2006 with the objective of building friendship among the youth of the country with the youth of China and provide the Chinese youth an opportunity to study the youth development programmes and initiatives in our country. The year 2006 was celebrated as India-Chinese Friendship Year. This Chinese Delegation Visit was part of the agreement between the Government of India and the Government of China to organise youth exchange programmes by sending 103 youth from India to China and vice versa. The visiting Chinese Delegation were treated with a well-planned itinerary which included visits to academic institutes, industries, cultural centres and Indian villages.

There are a number of voluntary organisations working exclusively for young people who are implementing very effective programmes for development of youth which directly or indirectly impact on the life of the young people. The Institute sought to identify and develop a framework for cooperation and mutual support between the voluntary sector and the Institute by organising a two day consultation on promotion of youth development in India in August 2006 in which 15 major NGOs from different parts of the country participated and deliberated on various issues and came forth with a framework for forming the Network of Voluntary Action in Youth Development (NOVAYD).

It was a matter of great privilege for the Institute to be identified as a place in Southern India for the release of the World Development Report 2007 of the World Bank. The World Bank Report, a flagship publication of the World Bank, focused rightly on the development for the next generation i.e. the youth under the age of 35 to represent the largest population group in Southern Asia. This report was released and followed by a highly participative and productive Colloquium on Contemporary Youth Issues which was well attended by officials from Central and State Governments, Youth Experts, Academicians and the NGO sector from the field of Youth Development. The recommendations and suggestions that emerged in the Colloquium served as inputs for the formulation of 11th Plan strategy for Youth and Adolescent Development.

There was also a need to review the current status of the youth in the country and therefore the Institute initiated a project to prepare 'Youth In India Report' reflecting the educational, employment, health, gender, equality and status of youth prevailing in the country. It is mainly a fact finding enquiry to build total picture on youth population of India at the beginning of the new millennium. This report is modelled on the pattern of a similar exercise sponsored by the then Department of Youth Affairs and Sports, Ministry of Human Resource Development in 1986-87.

As an Institute of advanced study in the field of youth it was imperative that the Institute take up the task of constructing a 'Youth Development Index' to enable the assessment of the status of the Youth in the country, facilitate comparison between States and Union Territories and also identify the gaps which need policy intervention. Accordingly a high level Core Committee comprising experts from different fields was constituted and a consultation held to suggest ways and means of developing the Youth Development Index. The Committee recommended that the Institute should collaborate with a reputed Institute i.e. Tata Institute of Social Sciences, Mumbai to implement the project.

As a part of its research activity the Institute during the year initiated studies on youth issues as well as evaluation of the programmes of the Ministry of Youth Affairs and Sports i.e. the study on the performances of the District Youth Coordinators and the functioning of Rural Information Technology Youth Development Centres. RGNIYD also conducted a qualitative research study on Women in Panchayati Raj.

The year thus saw multifarious activities which were initiated and implemented with a sense of determination to contribute to the overall development of the youth.

2. Training and other Activities

RGNIYD recognises the programme implementors as the cutting edge in the process of youth transformation. Hence, all its efforts are directed towards enhancing the skills of the youth development functionaries by providing training and capacity-building programmes on various issues of youth development. Therefore, it is imperative to train the youth in leadership with focus on social harmony and national unity. Further, the youth clubs needs to be enabled to manage the local crises like communal violence and diversifying factors that threaten national unity. E. Special Programmes

Inter-State Interactive Experience-Sharing Programme on Youth in Panchayati Raj Campaigns

In pursuance of the suggestions of the Hon 'ble Union Minister for Youth Affairs and Sports that RGNIYD should function as a centre of interaction for the youth of different states in the country on Panchayati Raj, the interactions and exchange of experiences on various aspects of implementation of the Panchayati Raj System would foster replication of the good/best practices in states where Panchayati Raj system is yet to take off or is weak. Towards this direction, a series of Youth in Panchayati Raj Campaigns were initiated at RGNIYD for the southern states with the objective to facilitate the youth leaders to share their unique experiences with their counterparts of other southern states.

First Inter-state Interactive Experience-Sharing 22-23 May 2006

Sixty seven elected PRI youth leaders from Tamil Nadu and Karnataka participated. The prime objective of the Campaign was explained to the participants and the need for effective implementation of the 73rd Amendment by translating it into the common man's language for a more participatory approach was underpinned along with the need for drawing the general public into the PRI system.

Second Inter-state Interactive Experience-Sharing 29-30 May 2006

In this Campaign 76 elected PRI youth leaders from Tamil Nadu and Andhra Pradesh participated. It was emphasised that a few people elected to the State Assemblies and Parliament would not be able to govern a vast country like India properly and therefore along with national development, local development with local leaders should also take place. Unlike the western countries who spend 40-50 per cent of their national income through local government, India spends only 2 per cent. Indicating the luminary example of Kerala, the participants were oriented to make the Panchayati Raj Institutions as units of self-governance.

Third Inter-state Interactive Experience-Sharing 7-8 June 2006

The third programme was organised for the young elected PRI members of Kerala and Tamil Nadu in which 46 persons participated. The participants deliberated on various dimensions of the Panchayati Raj system in their respective states.

Fourth Inter-state Interactive Experience-Sharing 19-20 June 2006

In this programme 37 young Panchayati Raj leaders from Kerala and Tamil Nadu participated.

Fifth Inter-state Interactive Experience-Sharing 29-30 June 2006

Eighty six Panchayati Raj members from Karnataka, Kerala and Tamil Nadu participated. In this programme, the Union Minister for Youth Affairs and Sports urged the need for intensive deliberation and discussion on evaluation of the 73rd and 74th Amendments, devolution of powers and organic relationship between the three tiers. He also called for effective planning and implementation of need-based developmental programmes by the Gram Panchayats.

Sixth Inter-state Interactive Experience-Sharing 25-26 July 2006

Seventy three Panchayati Raj members from Karnataka and Kerala exchanged their experiences in this programme.

Seventh Inter-state Interactive Experience-Sharing 24-25 August 2006

Sixty eight elected representatives from Andhra Pradesh, Kerala and Puducherry interacted and shared their experiences. In this programme, the need for a monthly honorarium/salary for all the Panchayati Raj elected representatives was stressed as being done in Kerala.

Eighth Inter-state Interactive Experience-Sharing 18-20 October 2006

This programme was organised exclusively for women in which thirty eight Panchayat members from Kerala, Karnataka and Puducherry participated. The role of PRIs in Disaster Management was the key theme for interaction and the vulnerability of women during disastrous situations along with the remedial action to be undertaken by the Panchayats were also discussed.

Ninth Inter-state Interactive Experience-Sharing 6-8 November 2006

Forty nine participants from Kerala, Karnataka and Puducherry shared their experiences. 3. Research and Extension Projects

The Institute has the mandate to function as a centre for advance study in the field of youth and also develop professional excellence as may be required for the purpose. As a 'think-tank' for youth programmes and policies and implementation strategies the Institute also undertakes evaluation studies on different programmes and schemes being implemented by the Ministry of Youth Affairs and Sports, Government of India.

Several new research projects on youth issues of vital importance were undertaken during the year. "Youth in India Report" – A profile of youth in the country and construction of Youth Development Index are the major initiatives undertaken this year.

Youth in India Report

RGNIYD has undertaken a Project on Preparation of "Youth in India" Report on the lines of a similar report prepared in collaboration with ICCSR in 1986 - 88. The "Youth in India" Report covers youth related issues such as; Structure, Growth and Distribution of youth population, Youth Situation in India, Employment, Education, Unemployment, Brain Drain etc., Youth Rights and Responsibilities, Youth Service Schemes of Governments, Youth Service Organisations, Health, Recreation and Family Life of the Youth, Weaker Sections of the Youth, Young Women, Crime by Youth, Youth Power, Youth Policy, Research on Youth and Problems of Youth etc. Each issue affecting the youth is being thoroughly researched and the report is being prepared based on the research findings.

The report interprets statistical data, based on the study of public and private reports besides published books. However, the work is based on existing primary and secondary data and information that lie scattered and it is an earnest attempt to assimilate at one place all the youth pertinent data for use by the Policy Makers, Researchers and Youth Development Administrators and Workers. Dr. S. Saraswathi, Director ICCSR (Retd.) has been appointed as a consultant for this project who was the author of the first such report brought out in January 1988.

Youth Development Index

RGNIYD has undertaken a project on constructing a Youth Development Index to enable assessment of the status of the Youth in the country, facilitate comparisons between the States and Union Territories and also be able to identify the gaps, which need policy intervention. Evolving a youth development index aids three-fold purpose viz., to recognise youth as a population category that requires separate consideration, development of a summary index to make comparisons on a cross-section of geographical areas and categories and measuring the achievement made to take up advocacy activities on youth development. The first meeting of the Core Committee was held on 18 May 2006 at New Delhi. The Core Committee came out with observations/suggestions pertaining to the Youth Development Index proposed for construction.

The following are the other Research studies undertaken during the year:

1. "A Study on Impact of HIV/AIDS Information, Education and Communication Campaigns on Young People in North-East India" through the North East Society for the Promotion of Youth and Masses (NESPYM), Guwahati, Assam.

IEC campaigns are being carried out by various agencies in the North-Eastern states. These campaigns are varied in nature and use various methodologies. Some of them are specific to certain groups of population while some are general in nature. Some are part of the wider national IEC campaign while some are area specific. The impact of these IEC campaigns has not been evaluated to comment on whether it has been able to have an impact on the youth or the problem of HIV / AIDS as a whole. A coverage impact on the youth or the problem of HIV / AIDS IEC campaigns is therefore being studied by NESPYM, a non government organisation working in North East India.

2. "Performance of Young Women Panchayat Raj Representatives" This study was undertaken in the states of Orissa, Chhattisgarh and West Bengal to assess the performance of the elected young elected representatives of Panchayati Raj Institutions, document case illustrations reflecting women empowerment through PRIs and suggest a road map for creating an enabling environment to empower women in playing a key role in decision making.

3. “Study on the Knowledge, Attitude and Practice (KAP) towards HIV/AIDS and Prevalence of STI among Youth In Tamil Nadu” by Dr. N. Usman, Research Project Consultant of Women's Organisation in Rural Development (WORD), Erode, Tamil Nadu.

In Tamil Nadu, the HIV prevalence rate among Ante Natal Centre (15-24) mothers was 75 per cent in 2005 as per TANSACS Sentinel Surveillance Report. The 15-24 years age group represents fresh infections in the general community. This group is particularly important since the prevalence data is close to incidence of HIV infections. There is need to scientifically study the factors that influence in acquiring HIV infection among youth and to develop youth specific / comprehensive behaviour change communication strategy to curtail HIV infection among future generations. This study will examine the knowledge of youth on HIV, effectiveness of the existing communication strategy and suggest appropriate communication strategy for youth.

4. “A Study on the Effectiveness of Functioning of the District Youth Coordinators of NYKS” by RGNIYD. A Pilot Study through a well-structured questionnaire to understand the functioning of the District Youth Coordinators who are the nodal officers at the District Level for implementation of the Youth Development Programmes at the District and below level was undertaken on a sample of 75 DYCs of NYKS. The study aims at analysing the performance of the DYCs vis-à-vis their functions with regard to regular and special programmes and the infrastructure available at their disposal for undertaking the youth development activities

5. “Evaluation Study on Rural Information Technology Centres” (RITYDCs) Rural Information Technology Centres, a scheme of NYKS introduced in 2003-04, function as hub of youth activities. An evaluation study of RITYDCs was initiated which aims to examine the functional effectiveness of the RITYDCs; to assess whether it is serving as a centre of national and international information; to assess whether these centres have created employment avenues for the youth and ultimately to the problems and hurdles in the effective functioning of RITYDCs thereby to suggest remedial measures.

Extension Projects

RGNIYD's Enhancing Youth Employability Projects

As part of RGNIYD's initiative to enhance employability among the less educated rural youth, new skill training programmes on Information Technology (IT), Construction skill and manufacturing leather products were taken up in collaboration with the National Institute of Information Technology (NIIT), Larsen & Toubro (L&T) and Indian Institute of Leather Products (IILP), Chennai during the quarter under report. The NYKS, Thiruvallur and Kancheepuram identified potential candidates, who were further screened by the officials of NIIT, L&T, IILP and RGNIYD. A total of 46 youth were selected for Construction Skill Training, 78 youth for IT Training and 107 were trained in Leather Products.

The details of these Training programmes are as follows:

4. Documentation and Dissemination

Documentation and dissemination is one of the crucial aspects of the Institute's activities. This function assumes pivotal proportion as documentation on youth-related areas and issues are disappointingly inadequate in India. Information sharing, through documentation and publications on various aspects of the life of the young people of the country and on emerging issues that impact their life, would not only strengthen the network of youth organisations that the Institute proposes to establish and nurture but also connect to its main constituency, the young men and women. Towards fulfilling these objectives the following documentation and dissemination activities were undertaken:

Notes forming a part of the Statutory Audit Report for the year 2006 – 2007

The accounts have been prepared based on the Cash System of Accounting. The Institute has given a declaration to the effect that no personal expenditure has been charged to the Income and Expenditure Account and the bifurcation of expenditure accounting has been done by the Institute as declared by them.

The result of the CVC investigation on the affairs of the institute is yet to be known. It is learnt that the dispute with M/s. Saravana Constructions Private Ltd., the building Contractor, is pending with the Arbitrator for final settlement. The Contractor has not handed over the entire building complex to the institute. The related provisions in terms of amounts payable, if any, to the Contractor have not been made by the Institute.

The accounting system requires tighter control in general in terms of overall internal control, and in case of the entire advances accounting as well as in the preparation of vouchers to be based on supportive bills.

The Institute has maintained Register of Fixed Assets. The institute has acquired a number of assets, but most of them are not being fully utilized. Depreciation has been calculated on the written down method, as per the Income Tax Act.
